GERMS SPREAD EVERYWHERE

Robust Irish Cook Gives Ample Demonstration of Her Physical Strength-Five Attendants Needed to Escort Her to Hospital for Examination Against Her Wishes.

Dr. George A. Soper, of New York, as a result of whose investigations Mary liverson, a cook, is a prisoner in Roosetelt Hospital, New York City, adjudged to be a disseminator of typhoid fever germs, recited the history of the case be-fore the Biological Society last night. Though in possession of a million or more germs, Miss liverson gave an interesting requested to appear at the hospital for examination, the combined efforts of five attendants being required to local to attendants being required to land her in

When inquiry concerning his place of refuge in the event of the cook's release was made by Dr. L. O. Howard, Dr. Soper answered briefly: "Europe. The hospital authorities have promised to inform me mmediately upon her release."

Miss Ilverson is forty years old, tall, of good figure, and apparently in perfect health. She has resolutely refused to submit tranquilly to expert efforts to locate the germs she is alleged to give off, or relate any details of her past history. As the result, however, of investigations covering ten years of her past life Dr. Soper said that in four families in which she was employed there were as many epidemics of typhoid fever, resulting in the illness of twenty-six persons and one death.

Typhoid in Oyster Bay.

"In August of last year," said Dr. Soper, "I was called upon to investigate an outbreak of typhoid fever in a family in Oyster Bay, N. Y., six out of eleven o whom were stricken with the disease. A exhaustive examination was made of th previous history of the patients, of the members of that and other households in the neighborhood, and of the water and food supply, the results being unsatisfac tory in every instance. My suspicions being directed toward the cook, I questioned her, but she refused to speak concerning herself, and although every inducement was offered, she declined to commit hertheif with regard to her past life. Then t was I began an investigation, which lisclosed the fact that in three other amilies in which she was employed, her arrival, after a period of ten days to two John Williams, who died January 27, mont's, resulting in the appearance of yesterday filed a protest against the

You've noticed the difference in human faces-seen kinds that belong to the weak and irresolute, and the kinds that denote strength of character and firmness. And how quickly and easily you detect them.

It's the same way in Furniture; the good, strong, reliable kinds have "character" shining out from them, and an assurance of a pleasing, life-time service.

The Furniture this store sells possesses all of these good symbols. You buy it here at no higher price than the weak and uncertain kinds that to-day fill the market place. Be on the alert for "A Face in the Furniture." We shall be glad to have you open an account here and arrange terms of payment to your satisfaction without extra expense.
